Holy Cross Hospital’s Michael and Dianne Bienes Cancer Center in collaboration with the Massachusetts General Hospital Cancer Center present the Winter Oncology Symposium 2013, featuring the latest advances for colorectal, kidney and bladder cancers.
WELCOME
TO THE WINTER ONCOLOGY
SYMPOSIUM 2013.

This symposium provides a comprehensive update on the latest advances in colorectal, kidney and bladder cancers. Experts will concentrate on developing treatment strategies and targeted therapies in the diagnosis and management of colorectal, kidney and bladder cancers.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

• Review the current method of evaluation of GI/Colorectal, GU/Bladder and Renal cancers.
• Diagnose and implement comprehensive and multidisciplinary treatment of local and locally advanced bladder and renal cancers and colorectal cancer.
• Define the roles of cystectomy, extent of node dissection and bladder sparing approaches in the treatment of bladder cancer.
• Describe management options including surveillance for small renal masses.
• Define the role for radiofrequency ablation and cryo-ablation for appropriate patients with kidney cancer.
• Review new technologies including GPS node mapping, genetic mutational development and new therapeutic interventions in colorectal cancer.
• Analyze new technologies including diagnosis, neo-adjuvant treatment and the role of metastatic liver resection for colorectal cancer patients.
WINTER ONCOLOGY SYMPOSIUM PROGRAM

7:30-8:00 Breakfast and Registration

Morning Session - GU Cancers - Kidney and Bladder
